

Christine Lorena Atkinson Guy, 95, of Franklin, died in the arms of her daughter, Janie Winter, on Wednesday, Nov. 22, 2006.

It was a graceful transition full of peace. She had only been here for one year but was impressed with the beauty of Franklin and the loveliness of its people. The warmth shown by all was reminiscent of Louisiana, her previous home.

She was preceded in death by her daughter, Judith Guy Carmena, who we all feel came to get her; her husband, Charles W. Guy; her parents; her sister and many friends.

She was a Rice University graduate, a famous artist, and a Baton Rouge socialite, founding the Debutante and Mardi Gras Balls, but her best role was mother to her three children, Judith Guy Carmena, Charlie Guy and Janie Guy Winter. She has seven grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, a "random act of kindness" or "pay it forward" or giving to your favorite charity would be appreciated.

Condolences may be sent to Janie Winter, 34 West Depot St., Franklin 28734.

Macon Funeral home is in charge of the arrangements.

Online condolences are also available by visiting www.maconfuneralhome.com.

The Franklin Press, 1 December 2006