

Alvin Lamar Harvey, 70, of Albany, died Wednesday, Aug. 3, 2005.

He was a native of Wilcox County. He was a member of the Well Drillers Association, the Home Builders Association and the Tennessee Walking Horse Association. He served in the U.S. Air Force during the Korean War. He also served with the Albany Fire Department and was a member of Greenwood Free Will Baptist Church.

Survivors include: his wife, Kate Shutes Harvey; three daughters and sons-in-law, Karen Harvey and John Austin of Clayton, Renee Harvey McDonald and Lynn Davenport and Marie Harvey Smith and John Ostrander, all of Lee County; a brother and sister-in-law, Charles Walter and Luneal Harvey of Tifton; two sisters, Jeanette Harvey Collins and Wilma Harvey Dubose, both of Albany; seven grandchildren, Brandon More, Stevie McDonald, Matthew Harvey, Ashley Austin, Heather Smith, Adam Austin and Tiffany Smith; and three great-grandchildren, Tyler Lee Holt, Destinie More and Brandon M. More.

Funeral services were held Saturday at Mathews Funeral Home with the Revs. Herbert Waid and Ken Chancellor officiating. Burial followed in Crown Hill Cemetery.

An online memorial register is available at www.mathewsfuneralhome.com.

Mathews Funeral Home, Albany, was in charge of arrangements.

The Clayton Tribune, Aug. 11, 2005