

Lloyd James

Lloyd H. James, 74, of James Lane off Seed Tick Road in The Chechero Community, Rt. 3, Clayton, died Saturday night Jan. 25, 2003, at his home.

Born in Seneca, S.C., Dec. 25, 1928, he had lived most of his life in Rabun County, Ga. He was a maintenance technician and electrician and was a U.S. Army veteran of Korea and was a former member of the Rabun County School Board. He served two terms and was a former member of the American Legion and was a member of the The New Hope Methodist Church.

He was the son of the late Thomas Dexter and Minnie Holden James.

He is survived by his wife, Carolyn Brewer James of the home; four sons, Lloyd Terrell (Spud) James of the home, Bo James, Randy James, both of Clayton, Ga., Deck James, Phenix City, Ala.; one daughter, Marian Thompson, Clayton, Ga.; one brother, Harold James, Dexter, Mich.; one sister, Roxie Gains, Pendergrass, Ga.; one sister-in-law, Raye James, Lakemont, Ga.; one special nephew, Cap Donaldson, Andrews, N.C. and several other nephews, nieces, cousins and thirteen grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Jan. 28, 2003, at the Battle Branch Baptist Church with Rev. Scott Thompson, Rev. Larry Cannon and Rev. Deck James officiating. Burial was in the Bleckley cemetery with military honors by Chapter 15, DAV of Rabun County.

Hunter Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

The Clayton Tribune, Jan. 30, 2003