

Margaret Stockdale Jenkins

Margaret Stockdale Jenkins, 90, of Clayton, died Monday, Aug. 23, 2004, at Rabun County Hospital.

She was born Sept. 5, 1913, in Pittsburgh to Joseph Shields and Jennie Mayberry Stockdale.

She graduated from Chatham College and worked as an executive secretary at American Standard in Pittsburgh. She also worked as a librarian at the Oakmont (Pa.) Carnegie Library for 10 years, beginning in the late 1960s, and was a homemaker. She was a member of the Oakmont Presbyterian Church. She moved to Clayton in 2001.

She was preceded in death by a brother, Harold L. Stockdale.

Survivors include: her husband of 64 years, Paul B. Jenkins Sr. of Clayton; a son, Paul B. Jenkins Jr., of Verona, Pa.; a daughter, Christy J. Black of Clayton; grandchildren, Jon and Beth Black Guffey of Dillard, Adam and Julie Black of Atlanta, Christopher and Alana Black of Tiger, Lindsay Moore of Clayton, Paul B. Jenkins III, of Oakmont, Morgan Jenkins of Verona and Gavin Jenkins of Bedford, Pa.; a niece, Margaret Havens of Philadelphia; 17 other nieces and nephews; and six great-grandchildren, Charlotte and Katie Black of Valdosta, Carly and Tommy Black of Atlanta, Matthew Black of Tiger and Ethan Guffey of Dillard.

A private memorial service was held at Estatoah Wayfarers Chapel with the Rev. Ron Lindahn officiating.

Memorial donations may be made to the Oakmont Carnegie Library Building Fund, 700 Allegheny River Blvd., Oakmont, PA 15139.

Hunter Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

The Clayton Tribune, Sept. 2, 2004