

Frank Mason

Killed In Georgia While Cutting Tree

Frank Mason, 55, farmer of Dillard, Ga., formerly of Macon county, was killed instantly Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the mountains near Dillard.

Mason and his brother-in-law, a Mr. Parker, had cut a tree to make boards. They had sawed off three blocks when the tree trunk kicked back and knocked Mason against a rock, cutting off the top of his head.

A native of the Skeenah section of Macon county, he was the son of Mrs. Julia Anne Parker Mason and the late Clingman Mason.

Surviving are the widow; four sons, Elbert and Ellis of Canton and U. I., and Elmer of Dillard; his mother, two brothers, and one sister.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Pleasant Hill Baptist church in the Skeenah section of Macon county. Officiating were the Rev. James I. Vinson, pastor, and the Rev. J. F. Marchman. Burial was in the church cemetery.

The Franklin Press, 15 April 1943